

RESIDENTIAL CARE PROVIDERS

Roommates, Respite and Community Support Providers

Agencies that provide residential care services for various government programs have contractual obligations to ensure they have proper insurance in place. Navacord has created a Residential Care Provider Liability program to provide the protection you need.

As an independent contractor, you do not have any coverage under the agency's insurance policy and your personal home or tenant's policy typically excludes any business ventures, such as residential care. To properly protect yourself and satisfy your contractual obligations, you need Commercial General Liability (CGL) coverage that is tailored to your care provider operations.

The two main components covered under a CGL policy are third party bodily injury and property damage. For example, if a client ran into the street and caused an accident there would likely be vehicle damage and the client could potentially sustain injuries as well. In this case, your policy would respond to protect you if the third parties involved were looking to recover from you as a care provider.
